Ironman 4x4 Foam Cell Pro Shock Absorbers

Ironman 4x4 Releases it's new range of Foam Cell Pro shock absorbers

MELBOURNE, VIC, August 15, 2014 – When it comes to 4x4 Shock Absorbers ... Bigger is Better!

And when it comes to big, there is nothing larger, stronger and more robust than the new Ironman 4x4 Foam Cell Pro range of shock absorbers.

The Ironman 4x4 Foam Cell Pro range is designed to meet all the demands and challenges faced both on and off-road, loaded or unloaded while producing a superb ride.

4x4 Suspension Product Director, Kristian Ristell spent the last 2 years developing Ironman 4x4 Foam Cell Pro.

“We started from a blank sheet of paper and worked with 4x4 owners all over the world to produce a no compromise product”

“It was a huge project but I believe we now have a unique shock absorber that will be sought after worldwide and will be the envy of all other brands,” he said.

Through extensive research and development, Ironman 4x4 know that when it comes to 4x4 suspension performance, bigger is really better.

“The key to 4x4 shock performance is dissipating heat caused by suspension articulation and making sure the mounting points are big enough to cope with the stresses a 4x4 vehicle endures; on road, towing or off road in corrugations” he said.

“With more oil and a larger surface area, Ironman 4x4 Foam Cell Pro minimize heat buildup and maintain their ideal performance no matter what you throw at them,” Mr Ristell said.

Ironman 4x4 challenges 4x4 owners to compare Foam Cell Pro with all other brands. The Ironman 4x4 Foam Cell Pro features include

- 65-72mm outer body
- 45mm diameter piston
- 20mm chrome hardened piston rod
